NO. 51.

Anderson's Wear-Easy Shoe....

is a shoe made especially for farm use and that will wear "as easy as an old shoe" right from the start. A shoe in which there is not a peg or nail or thread to touch the bottom of the foot. A shoe that is almost as soft and flexible as a lady's hand turned. A shoe with a pure white oak innersole that is cooling to the bottom of the foot; all other every day shoes are made with cheap acid tanned red leather innersoles that burn, scald and blister the feet so badly in hot weather. A shoe that will give more comfort for general farm use than any shoe that has ever been gotten up.

We keep this shoe in Buckle and Congress & the price is $1.50

Sizes 6 to 13.

Pratt Carries the County Over Taylor For Governor.

The Republican county convention Saturday was a stormy and protracted one, participated in by about 425 voters.

Judge Breathitt nominated W. T. Fowler for chairman, a Taylor man.

Otho Anderson nominated Dr. Sargent as the Representative of Pratt.

Hiram Smith, col., seconded Fowler's nomination and Wyatt Watt, col., seconded Sargent's.

Tellers were appointed and a count showed 250 for Sargent and 171 for Fowler. Sargent was thereupon declared elected, and Whitney the colored lawyer, was made Secretary.

Judge Landes offered resolutions instructing the 34 delegates appointed to the Lexington convention to vote for Pratt.

EXPRESS TRAIN WRECKED.

Disastrous Accident Near Belleville, Ill.

A disastrous railroad wreck occurred at 6:28 o'clock Saturday morning on the Illinois Central Railroad at Belleville.

An express train going almost at full speed, dashed into the rear end of a freight train standing on the main track.

One passenger, Charles Golsch, of New Athens, was injured.

The engineer of the express, Simon Mulconney of Belleville, and his fireman, Warren Cole, of St. Louis, saved their lives by jumping.

The express engine was upended and overturned. The caboose and two cars of the freight were reduced to kindling wood.

The collision was due to the freight train not clearing the track for the express, which ran on time.

COINCIDENCE

In the Death of Colonel L. Mackey, a Famous Indian Fighter.

Chillicothe, O., June 22.—Colonel Thos. L. Mackey, aged 85, widely known throughout the state, died here this evening. He was for years agent of the Chillicothe, Columbus stage coach line, became noted as an Indian fighter, commanding from 1861 to 1866 to Eleventh Ohio Cavalry on the frontier, and was later Sheriff of Ross county. A queer coincidence is that exactly 21 years ago to-day he conducted the execution of Perry Bowsher for the brutal murder of an old tollgate keeper and his wife.

RYE AND BOURBON

Distilling Company of America Now Controls the Whole Country's Output.

Louisville, June 25.—Alfred A. Austrian, one of the counsel for the Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Company, returned to-day from New York, where he assisted in forming the combine of the American Spirits Manufacturing Company, the Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Company, the Spirits Distributing Company and the Standard Distilling & Distributing Company into the Distilling Company of America.

Mr. Austrian leaves to-morrow for Cincinnati, where he expects to close the deal with Elias Block & Sons to purchase the Darling Distillery in Carroll county, and with Fribourg & Warkum to secure their two plants in Boone county, the deal involving about $800,000. This will complete the acquisition of distilleries by the Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Company.

Speaking of the big combine Mr. Austrian said: "By merging the four big companies the Distilling Company of America now controls all the rye and bourbon whisky and the spirits output of the whole country. The merging will prove a boon to the whisky and spirits trade. Every day between 30,000 and 40,000 shares of stock are being deposited with the Central Trust Company of New York."

"Each of the four branches of the corporation will retain its main offices, and so far as I know there will be no changes among the officers."

The convention then proceeded to nominate a candidate to represent Christian county in the next legislature. Three names were placed before the convention. These were Jas. F. Rogers, J. W. CHANGED THEIR MINDS.

Proposed Outbreak Against Americans in Cuba Didn't Materialize.

Santiago De Cuba, June 25.—Yesterday was the feast of San Juan, the date announced in placards, which had been posted about the city for an outbreak against the Americans. The day passed, however, without any alarming incident, the only disorder being caused by a crowd of over enthusiastic Cubans who stoned a Spaniard and badly wounded him. The celebration is still in progress.

The streets are crowded with mazqueraderos, who are singing and shouting for "Cuba Libre."

Discouraging Outlook.

Elkton, June 24.—The new tobacco crop in this section is in jeopardy owing to the extreme dry weather. In the first place, the plants were very tender when set out, and the crop has sustained the ravages of the grasshoppers and now the unusually dry, hot weather.

The plants are turning yellow and drying on the hill. The conditions, if continued a few days, will tell very susceptibly upon the next crop.

How to Conduct a Poultry Show.

As the season of Poultry Exhibitions is near at hand, I thought a few timely hints on how to conduct a poultry show would aid the management as well as the exhibitors in making the exhibit one of which they may be proud. The few pointers given below if put into effect, will work benefit to all concerned.

In the first place, advertise your show thoroughly through the Poultry Journals and your local and county newspapers. Close your entries early, and at a given time, and stick to it. It matters not if the entries of your President be late, dear his birds from competition, and require all birds to be in place by ten (10) p. m. of the first day of the show. On the morning of the second day all birds should be fed and watered, and within an hour after this is done the weighing committee should be at work. The chairman of this committee should be the President of the Association. His duty should be to put the weights down on the entry tag with pen and ink or a colored pencil and the land and weight should be recorded in his weight memorandum. Do not tie the entry tags on the front of the coop with strings, but tack each tag separately at the top or end of the coop. This will enable the judge at a glance to ascertain the weight of the specimen without running through the bunch of tags, which will save no little time in scoring the exhibition. The Secretary should have the tags all made out prior to the opening of the exhibition, which can readily be made out from each entry as received, and checked off with exhibitor's name on the back of the cards.

The Judge should be provided with a clerk, one that is rapid and accurate. I will admit that good clerks are about as scarce as "hen's teeth."

The clerk should not be an exhibitor, but an accountant or bill clerk. It would be better if he did not know one chicken from the other and were not anxious to learn. The average clerk accepts the position to "learn something" as is often said. More than one-half the errors made on score cards are due to this kind of a clerk. He is watching the Judge or the bird instead of the score card. I have as high as seven different clerks in one show, all anxious to "learn." This should not be. The Association should provide one clerk who will stay with the Judge throughout the show.

The Judge should also be provided with a small exhibition coop in which to place the birds, in order to get their shape. It is impossible to get the cemetery or "typical carriage," as the new standard terms it, with four to ten birds in one coop. The management should also provide a box (I prefer a coffee box) with a lid at the top in which to place the birds as scored, and when a coop is finished transfer the birds from the box back into the original exhibition coop. This saves time and trouble in sorting out unscathed specimens by leg bands.

It is best to score all birds by the same light. One corner of the show room near a window should be arranged, with a table or trestle on which to set the coops, and two assistants furnished by the Superintendent should stay with the Judge and keep him supplied with coops. A small table should be provided for the clerk.

Require the Judge to foot all score cards, and to do it with pen and ink or indelible pencil. The Judge should also make the awards in the single classes, marking the prize won, if any on the face of the score card.

The Secretary can make the judge's work easier by doing as much as possible, make entry tags as entry sheet is received, get score cards printed in advance and sign your name to a few hundred, and put them away until the judges get ready to go to work. They will be worthless until signed by the Judge. This will enable the exhibitors to get their score cards several hours sooner than they would if you had to sign them after the judges turns them in. While we are on score cards, let me say a word or two. No two associations have the same form or size. All cards should be made so as to go inside a number six envelope without folding. I should advise a 3 1/2 x 5 1/2 inch card.

Do not require the judge to stop at the poorest hotel in town for the reason that the hotel gave you a dollar advertisement for your catalogue. Allow the judge to get warm after entering the show room before you ask him to look at your birds to try to get his opinion as to the probable score and the prize that you think the bird should win. Don't tell where you bought your fine cockerel. There are a great many amateur exhibitors who do this. The judge would prefer not handling the birds or passing any opinion until he scores the bird. After all the birds are scored then the judges are always pleased to explain the merits or demerits of the specimens, and the exhibitors should wait until such time or else some jealous competitor might accuse him of trying to influence the judge.—By W. S. RUSSELL, Judge, Ottumwa, Iowa, in Reliable Poultry Journal.

"Eggs is Eggs."

The Paoli (Ind.) Republican grows humorous on the subject of poultry, but offers a sensible suggestion in that guise. It says:

"Eggs is eggs, and nothing else. The hen clucks and cackles and quietly accepts no end of ridicule and contempt, but she gets there all the same. She scratches for a living. I wish I knew how many mortgages the hen has lifted, how many families she has clothed, and how many children she has educated, while the farmer sat around and talked finance and politics at the store. She has done a pretty sight of it, first and last, and very little thanks has she got for it—or the farmer's wife and daughter, either. Perhaps the farmer says he knows his business, and that I don't know what I'm talking about. Perhaps not. Orange county produced last year, in poultry sold and consumed, 27,000 dozen fowls worth on the average, say, $3 per dozen, to make even figures, and 338,360 dozen of eggs, worth, say, on an average of 10 cents. That would make $82,800 for the poultry and $23,836 for the eggs, or in round numbers $116,600, more than half of which is clear profit to the farm.

"Here we made enough to satisfy all the mortgages, and pay the special school, road and bridge tax four times over. Now, that may be pretty tall talking in the opinion of the man who whittles a popular stick in front of the postoffice, but I've got the figures to prove it."

The Republican suggests that the county poor farm take up poultry raising and render itself self-sustaining. That isn't a bad idea.

Many a man who says he had rather be rich than to be President can't be either.

PLANTATION CHILL CURE is Guaranteed.

SOLD BY F. C. HARDWICK, HOPKINSVILLE, KY.

Duck Culture.

Most farmers have a prejudice against water fowl, especially ducks. They tolerate geese because those birds forage and live on grass during the summer, after the goslings are started. Ducks will not thrive under neglect. They are prone to wander, and get lost in swamps or brooks. They have a foolish way of dropping their eggs in the water, and of following a brook into neighboring farms, unless they have suitable quarters and receive regular attention. It is a good deal of trouble to look after them.

A half-starved duck will dispose of a large quantity of corn at a single feeding, apparently remembering the past and anticipating the future. The careless farmer will have none of this sort of stock. But the duck has a great many qualities to commend it to the most careful man.

There are ten breeds of ducks raised in this country, viz., the White Pekin, White Aylesbury, Rouen, Black Cayuga, Colored Muscovy, White Muscovy, Gray Call, White Call, Black East Indian and Crested White. These are named in the order of popularity. The East Indian is a bantam, bred for fancy, and the Crested White is an ornamental variety.

The White Pekin leads, for all purposes. It is valuable for raising on a large scale. It is easily raised, but is timid and must be handled carefully. It was imported from China in 1873. Mr. McGrath, of the firm of Fogg & Co., engaged in the China and Japan trade, saw the bird at Pekin, and thought it a variety of the goose. He procured some eggs and took them to Shanghai, where he set them under hens and secured 15 ducklings. When sufficiently matured, these birds were sent to the United States in charge of James E. Palmer. Six ducks and three drakes survived the voyage of 124 days and reached New York March 13, 1873. Mr. Palmer was to retain one-half of them. He took his share home, leaving the remainder to be sent to Mr. McGrath's family. These never reached their destination. Mr. Palmer's ducks began laying in March. The three ducks laid 325 eggs. From this beginning grew up the greatest duck industry ever known in this country.

The Pekin has a distinct type and differs from all others. The legs are set well back, causing the bird to walk in an upright position. The fowl is large, the flesh delicate, free from grossness. They are the best table duck and excellent layers, laying from 125 to 150 eggs in a season. They begin laying about January and continue until late in July, and again for a short time in the fall. They are non-sitters, hardy, and mature early. The method of feeding, as practiced by me, as manager of the Clear View Farm, will be described hereafter.

May Hempstead a Winner.
A dispatch from Sheephead Bay says of the Caney Island Jockey Club's meeting:

May Hempstead, whose price was as good as 8 to 5, at the opening, made her first appearance as a three-year-old in the east, and the ease and handiness with which she won, shows that she is in form and up to race. The handsome Patroned filly galloped over the field, defeating Merry Prince, Byron McClelland and a fair field without trouble. She carried 107 pounds.

MAY CONQUER FOG.
"Electrical Cohesion" Premises to Turn Mist Into Rain.

In the course of a Royal institution lecture on "Coherers," Prof. Oliver Lodge made an experiment which may have an important bearing in the abatement of the smoke nuisance. He filled a bell jar with magnesium smoke. Ordinarily these thick fumes would take a long time to disperse, says the London Times. Dr. Lodge passed a charge of electricity through the jar and the smoke began instantly to clear, the smoke particles uniting and falling in the form of a white snow of magnesia. The word used to describe the action of the smoke particles is electric "cohesion." The explanation of it, Dr. Lodge said, is beyond our scientific knowledge, and it is one of those great problems of electricity which we hope that Lord Kelvin may solve. It is perhaps enough to say at this point that it is the quality of electric cohesion which makes Hertzian wireless telegraphy possible—by the use of sensitive electric devices called "coherers," which, like the receiver of a telephone, serve to indicate certain forms of electric waves. But Dr. Lodge accidentally referred to a possible extension on a large scale of his magnesium smoke experiment. "Some people," said he, "may imagine that this experiment suggests a means of dispersing London fog. An adaptation of some such method might be suitable for the dispersion of real fog, of sea fog arising from a moisture-charged atmosphere.

A Scotch mist can be turned into rain by a suitable discharge of electricity; and ordinary rain can be changed into the large drops of a thunder shower by the electric discharge of the lightning flash. The reason for the size of the drops is that owing to the incident of electric "cohesion," the drops are attracted to one another and form conglomerate drops. But I don't think electricity could prevent London fog. The only way to prevent a London fog is not to cause it. And the way not to cause it is not to burn coal fires, like ages, in open grates. The day will come when it will be forbidden to import crude coal into London. I confess I should like to see the experiment tried of making gas at the great coal fields and of conveying it to the town in huge pipes and conduits. The experiment, of course, could not be made with respect to London; it would have to be conducted on too large a scale, but it might be tried with a small town. It will have to come to that some day. People say they can't bear gas stoves. But as a matter of fact all fires are gas stoves. People make gas themselves, and make it badly. No doubt, however, the gas stove of the inevitable future will be very different contrivance from that of to-day."

A Self-Made Man.

The Paris papers are telling stories of M. Bassinet, a new member of the French Senate. Like many of his colleagues, he is a self-made man, and began life as a journeyman mason. In that capacity he was employed to renovate the sculptural facade of the Luxembourg palace, when the architect, noticing his skill and industry, said to him by way of encouragement: "Why, you couldn't be making a better job if it were your own home." The young workman smiled, and is said to have answered: "One never knows what the future may bring forth." He had at the time no political aspirations, but, all the same, he now sits as senator in the building he helped to adorn. —Christian Work.

I was seriously afflicted with a cough for several years, and last fall had a more severe cough than ever before. I have used many remedies without receiving much relief, and being unable to get a bottle of Dr. Mendenhall's Cough Syrup, by a friend, who knew me to be a poor widow, gave it to me; I tried it, and with the most gratifying results. The first bottle relieved me very much and the second bottle has absolutely cured me. I have not had a good health for twenty years. I give this certificate without solicitation, only in appreciation of the value of your Cough Syrup.

Gov. Roosevelt is attending a Rough Rider's Reunion at Los Vegas, New Mexico.

Jim Jeffries was booked for a sparing match at Music Hall Saturday night but had to get another hall on account of the convention.

The Democratic convention at Louisville breaks all precedents as a long one. Not in the memory of the present generation has a state convention had to adjourn over Sunday and take two weeks to complete its business.

Allie W. Young, the new Chairman of the State Executive Committee, is a young lawyer of Mt. Sterling, only 33 years old. His brother Will A. Young is the member from the Tenth District.

Ten or twelve more counties held conventions Saturday to select delegates to the Republican convention at Lexington next month. Most of them went for Taylor, whose instructed vote is now 729, the number necessary to nominate being 848.

Practice Reading Aloud.

I will surprise every girl who has not already grown to a realization of her shortcomings in this direction to hear how little of the author's thought she brings out when she reads aloud. The monotony of her voice will surprise her too, and her throat will grow tired. She will stumble or hesitate at unfamiliar words, even though she knows their meaning thoroughly, just as one who reads music readily will misplay it from lack of practice. Of course you understand what you are reading, but when you read aloud you must not only do this; you must make it clear to the listeners. The eye can travel more rapidly than the voice, so that it is easy to read a few words ahead and get the meaning before the voice needs to take up the words. By doing this, continuity of expression is insured, consequently continuity of thought on the part of the reader is possible.

It is a very rare thing to hear a good conversationalist who does not read well, and they are the first to acknowledge the help their reading has offered them. In reading aloud few words are brought to us, and we familiarize ourselves with them, and also with the mechanism of pronouncing them, so that the risk in using them when we talk is small. In reading, graces of expression and new arrangements of words come to our notice and we can acquire them; depth and versatility of thought grow to ours by assimilating the thoughts of others, and that most desirable thing of all, a large cabulary, also becomes ours. What girl has not stumbled and blundered vocally seeking an apt word to express her thought? And who among us has perfectly learned to apply all sorts of things, from the newest shirt waists to a snow-capped peak of the Rockies. If girls read aloud more, they would acquire a better idea of the value of words and use them more appropriately.—Woman's Home Journal.

GROWS IN MADAGASCAR.

A Plant Which has a Clutch That Kills.

The man eating tree, or tree devil, of Madagascar, resembles a pineapple in shape, with a series of long hairy, green tendrils stretched out in every direction toward the horizon at the top. The trunk of the tree is about eight feet high, black and hard as iron, and the tendrils are seven or eight feet long, tapered from four inches to half an inch in diameter. Above these, from between the upper and under end, six white and almost transparent papil rear themselves toward the sky, twirling and twisting with a marvelous, incessant motion, yet constantly reaching upward—thin as reeds and frail as quills apparently, yet five or six feet tall—with a subtle sinuous sinistrous thrashing against the air, with their suggestions of serpents dancing on their tails. On the summit of the tree there is a cup containing a viscid fluid, and all who drink of it become wild with frenzy, and the atrocious cannibal tree fastens around them its tendrils, one after another like great green serpents with brutal energy and terrible rapidity, until life is extinct. In India their grows a marvelous palm called the self-lifting tree. The plant is 11 feet in height, not including the leaves and stems, and it changes position every morning and evening. One who has seen it writes: "At 5:30 o'clock the tree was almost lying towards the west. The foot of it was at an angle of five to seven degrees with the ground, and we were given to understand that it had already commenced to rise at four o'clock. A handkerchief which had been tied to one of the leaves so that its other end might just touch the ground had risen six inches. At eight p. m. the handkerchief was 18 inches from the ground, and at three a. m. nine feet."—Ladies Home Journal.

PIG AND BULL.

A Remarkable Fight Between Two Prize Animals.

One of the fiercest battles ever fought hereabouts took place yesterday in a pasture on the outskirts of this town. One of the contestants was a bull with a long pedigree, and the other was a prize pig that is the prize of the county fair. Up to the time the pig grunted its way into James A. Bell's pasture from its pen in the rear of the barn his Devonshire highness was king of all he surveyed—and he was not nearsighted. The field is a large one, and the pig had walked to the center before it was seen by the bull. Never did a red flag flaunted in a Spanish bullring cause greater rage. With a roar the bull lowered his sharp horns and dashed for the pig. Now, being a pig, the animal refused to budge an inch. A couple of Mr. Bell's farmhands, expecting to see the animal gored to death at the first charge, armed themselves with pitchforks and hurried to the rescue. But their assistance was not needed. As the bull got too close quarters the pig executed a side step maneuver and fastened its teeth in the bull's nose, causing the big brute to roar with pain. The porker hung to the nose like a bulldog, and it was only after an effort that the bull shook himself free and retreated to his corner. In the mix up in the second round the pig followed the same tactics, but in the shake-off of two of his ribs were broken. In the third round the bull came up fresh and had a slight advantage, as the pig was groggy. In the next few rounds the pig lowered its head to the throat, and in the tenth fought its antagonist to the ground, weak from blood. Then the farmhands interfered. The bull may die.—Buffalo Express.

There is more Catarach in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable.

For a great many years doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarach to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarach Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional salve on the market that takes away the disease.

It is taken internally, and is 10 drops to the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Seed for circulants and tonics.

Prints With X-Rays.

By the use of a sensitized paper a Frenchman has succeeded in doing some printing with the X-rays, though his accomplishments have not gone far enough to threaten the existence of the printing press. Radiographic ink, of a material calculated to intercept the rays, was used as a medium for making the copy to be reproduced. This was placed on a pile of prepared paper two inches in thickness, and after an exposure of a few seconds to the sensitized paper—washed with a gelatine-bromide solution much like that commonly used by photographers—each sheet of course, being developed as in photography. Mechanical drying of the developed and fixed sheets was resorted to in a trial for speed, and the result is said to have been satisfactory. The one trouble seems to be the difficulty of printing on one side of the paper only, as the method so far used allows the printing to show on the reverse side of the sheet. The inventor is now at work on a scheme to prevent this, and thinks that the trouble has been practically solved by a method of sensitizing the paper in strips, so that impressions will be taken on these strips only, leaving the intervals ready for the strip sensitizing and photographic printing at a future operation on the other side. The experimenter also thinks it possible to photograph with different copy each side of the same sheet of paper at the same operation, though his successes in that direction have not as yet been marked, save when small pieces of paper and widely separated lines for reproduction have been used.—N. DOWN TO BUSINESS.

for its complete subordination to the interest of organized wealth; for its protection and encouragement of trusts and combinations; and especially for its appointment and retention in office of an Attorney General devoted to the interests of trusts and combinations.

Third.—We refer to the incompetency of the present Republican Administration in Kentucky; to the abuses and scandals in the management of penitentiaries and asylums while under Republican control; and we commend the wisdom of the last General Assembly of Kentucky in the enactment of laws which secure the wise and economical administration of the penitentiaries and other public institutions of the State under Democratic control; to the increase in the rate of taxation; to the vetoing of all Democratic legislation favorable to the interests of the people and hostile to the oppressions and extortions of organized wealth. We declare that after four years of trial it is well established that the Republican Administration is incapable of upholding and maintaining the laws of the Commonwealth and of efficiently enforcing its laws and of preserving peace and order in the Commonwealth, and we especially condemn the present Republican Governor for surrounding the State capital with the military arm of the Government in time of profound peace, thus attempting to terrorize the General Assembly pending the selection of a United States Senator.

Fourth.—We believe the trust is the result in large measure, adopted and pursued by the Republican party, chief among which are the demonization of silver, by which the volume of currency has been kept below the demands of business, and the enactment and enforcement of vicious, unwise and unpatriotic legislation, such as the protective tariff laws known as the McKinley and Dingley Bills, whereby there is discrimination in favor of corporate wealth and against individual enterprise. We favor the destruction of the result as well as the removal of the causes. The re-establishment of independent bimetallism at 16 to 1 and the repeal of all protective tariff laws would do more to cripple and destroy the organization and operation of the trusts than any other laws.

Fifth.—We believe the law in Kentucky known as the anti-trust law should be so amended as to make unlawful any agreement, combination or arrangement by corporations or individuals under which in the carrying on of any business, the prices charged should thereby be fixed, controlled or regulated. And we believe that said law should be further so amended as to provide that all contracts made by any combination, generally known as a trust, in any kind of business should be void and not enforceable as to such trust or combination, and we especially demand that all trusts-controlled articles be placed on the free list.

Sixth.—We endorse the amendment to the State election law passed by the last Democratic General Assembly of Kentucky over the veto of a Republican Governor. We declare the amendment to the law to be in the interest of fair and honest elections. Its faithful enforcement will render impossible the commission of such frauds and this State in 1896 whereby the will of the people was overthrown and the State lost to William J. Bryan.

Seventh.—We endorse the provisions of the bill passed by the Democratic General Assembly of Kentucky for the prevention of the charging of extortionate, unfair, discriminating and ruinous freight rates by transportation companies, which bill was vetoed by a Republican Governor; and we likewise endorse the provisions of the bill passed by said General Assembly to insure competition in the sale of school books for the use of the children of this State, the purpose of which bill was to destroy the extortionate and oppressive prices now maintained by the School Book Trust in this State—and we pledge the Democracy to such revision or amendment as time or necessity may show is beneficial to the school children of this State.

Eighth.—We hereby express our continued confidence in William J. Bryan and favor his nomination for the Presidency of the United States by the Democratic National Convention of 1900.

Ninth.—We recommend to the Democracy of Kentucky J. C. S. Blackburn as the successor of William Lindsay in the United States Senate.

Tenth.—We endorse the war carried to success for the freedom of the enslaved Cubans; and we appreciate and honor the courage and heroism of our soldiers and sailors therein engaged. But we declare the conduct of the present national Administration as to the Philippines to be repugnant to every line of the Bill of Rights, the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

Voting at Last.

The nominating speeches were brief and the first ballot was taken in short order. Hardin was not nominated, but Adair led off by voting for him any how. In spite of this Goebel seemed to be getting most of Hardin's votes. Thompson and Bronston voted for him and he would have won easily had not Louisville voted 35 votes promised to Stone for Goebel. This caused the Stone men to begin changing to Hardin, although Daviess changed to Stone to offset the bad faith in Louisville. Goebel was nominated for a while, but several Hardin counties rapidly changed from Goebel to Hardin and he was soon left about 30 votes short. Goebel had 520, Stone 428½ and Hardin 126½.

The Stone men continued to change to Hardin and before the result was even announced the convention adjourned till six o'clock. In the meantime the convention calmed down and when balloting was resumed it was upon a settled basis, which continued throughout eleven monotonous roll calls.

The last stood Goebel 343½, Daviess 36½, Stone 37½. Stone's votes on one ballot went to 394 and he led on every ballot, though Goebel claims 420 votes at his disposal whenever he wants them. Goebel cannot be dropped and he expresses confidence in his ability to beat either one in a single handed fight.

At 11:20 the convention adjourned till 10 a. m. Monday.

Report Not Confirmed.

Just before going to press the following bulletin was received at this office:

Convention Hall:—Five hours and nothing done. Hardin and Stone combine; moved to exclude police and appealed from decision of the chair holding motion out of order. Chair refused to entertain appeal and combine has refused to allow any business whatever. Goebel is confident and anxious to have a vote again either Stone or Hardin singly.

DREYFUS CASE DRAMATIZED.

Emile Zola to Write a Five-Act Play to be First Presented in New York.

New York, June 24.—The Dreyfus case is to be dramatized by Emile Zola. Zola's American representative, Mr. Edmund Gerzon, has signed a contract with a well-known theatrical manager, whereby Zola is to weave a five-act drama around the trials and tribulations of the French army officer. According to the agreement, it is to be completed by October. It will receive its first presentation in this city in January.

A Pleasant Moonlight.

Trenton, Ky., June 24, 1899.—On Wednesday evening, June 21, at this place, was given one of the most delightful moonlight picnics ever witnessed in this section. All the belles and beaux of the neighborhood, increased by a sprinkling from the city, were assembled in the beautiful yard of Mr. J. J. Carr's.

Although only a spectator, I must confess that the neat and tasteful white dresses of country lasses corresponded to their deportment, and were beautifully and appropriately emblematic of all the virtues that should distinguish country life.

I forgot to mention that the entertainment was given in honor of Mrs. Collins' visitors, Misses Lula Dickerson and Lou Sherrill, of Bennettstown; Vesta Davidson and Julia Fraser, of Lafayette.

Among the numerous persons present space and time will only permit me to mention the following:

Misses Lou Sherrill, Lula Dickerson, Vesta Davidson, Julia Fraser, Belle and Maud Randle, Lelia Dickerson, Ruby Watts, Carrie Sladen, Hulda Smythe, Inez Neal, Nan Jackson, Emma and Annie Baldwin, Lucy Winners, Jessie Garth, Minnie Fox.

The gentlemen were: Jess and John Dickinson, Demetrious Corneal, Walter Warfield, Hugh Massie, Phil and Coley Dickerson, Luther Sullivan, Jim and Will Hunter, Will Drake, Burnice Spicer, Tom Perkins, Lewis Barnes, Leslie and Josiah Corneal, Will Duke, Herbert Dickinson, Edgar Crutchfield, Frank and Joe Waller, Chas. Bennett, Jean and Dalton Dickerson.

At eleven o'clock supper was served in the yard. The host and hostess were Mr. Jesse Dickerson and Miss Irene Randle.

We all left at a late hour, thanking Mr. Carr and Mrs. Collins for our pleasant evening.

SPECTATOR.

A Voorhees Anecdote.

The law makers of the United States took no official note of last Wednesday, although the Senate has frequently adjourned on that day out of respect for the religious opinions of certain of its members. Whilst Mr. Edmunds was one of its number he always moved for adjournment on religious anniversaries, and Mr. Bayard usually followed the same custom.

Mr. Voorhees once attempted to do an old story, but I think you'll agree that it is worth repeating. The gentleman from Indiana was not a church man, and his little blunder caused him, for long afterward not small an annoyance at the hands of his friends, the late Attorney General Garland and Senator Vest. Letters came to him, because of it from all over the country. And this just because one Ash Wednesday he arose at the opening of the session and with great solemnity remarked, "Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn out of respect to this the anniversary of the crucifixion or our Lord." But the stenographers set him right on the record.—Philadelphia Press.

SAT UPON.

Bobby Talked Too Much When His Sister's "Young Man" Came.

"I don't altogether like this young Mr. Millikin, who comes to see you so often. I hear he is nothing but a poor clerk," is what the head of the family said to his daughter one day at the dinner table.

"He is a very nice young gentleman," replied his daughter, "besides, he is something more than a poor clerk. He gets a large salary, and is manager of one of the departments, and expects some day to have an interest in the business."

"I hope he may," responded the old man, "but he strikes me as a very flippan, impudent young person, who, in my opinion, should be sat down upon."

"Well, I have invited him to take tea with us this evening," said the daughter, "and I hope you will treat him politely, at least. You will find him a very different person from what you suppose him to be."

"Oh, I'll treat him politely enough," she said.

That evening Mr. Millikin appeared at tea and made a most favorable impression upon the old gentleman.

"He is a clever young fellow, after all," he thought. "I have done him an injustice."

It was just here that Bobby spoke out. Bobby was a well-meaning little boy, but too talkative.

"Papa," he ventured, "you know what you said to-day at dinner about Mr. Millikin, that he was an impudent young man, and ought to be sat down upon."

"Silence, sir!" shouted the father, swallowing a mouthful of hot toast.

But the little boy wouldn't be silent.

"It's all right," he continued, confidentially, but in a whisper loud enough to be heard out of doors, "he has been sat down upon. Sister sat down on him last night for two hours."

After this the tea went on more quietly, owing to Bobby's sudden and very jerky departure.—Answers.

TREASURES FROM LONDON

CLOTHES THE SWELL SET BROUGHT FROM THE SEASON IN ENGLAND

Society is just beginning to return from its season in London. True those who have returned did not stay until the end of the season, which can only be said to have fairly opened with the opening of the Royal Academy, but they stayed long enough to have an opportunity to see the most beautiful of the many wonderful gowns which they had prepared for just such an occasion, to get both their names and a description of their gowns in the London society journals, and to secure from the London modistes gowns of exquisite beauty which they have brought home with them to wear at the resorts during the summer season.

London has, but very little that is in any way common brought back by these returning London visitors. The best that London could provide has been none too good for them, and a handsome London made gown will no doubt attract a large share of the turn of the whitest of real Irish point which fits as tightly as the proverbial glove. It is made over an under garment of shimmering primrose yellow satin of which just a suggestion is caught through the meshes of the lace. The bodice is very full and forms a deep point over a flounce of pale chiffon of the same tone of yellow as the under dress, and this in turn is encircled with foamy little ruchings. The yoke and collar of the gown are made in one, and just against the throat at either side there blossoms out a pale blushing rose, embroidered in soft-colored silk on a background of pretty flowers sprouting on the vest, and covering the little pointed laps.

The woman who owns this gown will wear it with a hat which also comes from London. It is of a yellowish straw, almost as fine as gauze, with black velvet tied around the crown, and catching in a cluster of white ostrich

No woman is really in serious earnest until she keeps on her best pocket handkerchief.

Bad management keeps more people in poor circumstances than any other one cause. To be successful one must look ahead and plan ahead so that when a favorable opportunity presents itself he is ready to take advantage of it. A little fore thought will save much expense and wasted time. A determined and careful man will keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house the stiff fellow will wait until necessity compels it and then run his best chance going for a doctor and have a high doctor bill to pay, besides; one pays out 25 cents, the other is out a hundred dollars and then wonders why his neighbor is getting richer while he is getting poorer.

For sale by R. C. Hardwick, druggist.

Wise mothers keep their children obedient by never asking them to do anything they don't want to do.

"Cleanliness is next to godliness." Dirt and depravity go hand in hand. This is just as true of the inside of the body as the outside. Constipation, cold, rheumatism and clouds the mind. Constipation means that corruption is breeding in the body, poisoning the blood with its foul emanations, befogging the brain with its tainted exhalations. Constipation is the beginning of more diseases than, perhaps, any other single disorder. The consequences of constipation are legion.

Headache, pain in the side, shortness of breath, anxiety, restlessness, coldness, indecision, lassitude, dizziness, sallowness, flatulence, and a score of other ailments are directly caused by constipation. Cure constipation and you cure its consequences.

The quickest cure of this evil is obtained by the use of Dr. Chamberlain's Pleasan Pellets. They are small, but powerful in result.

They cure permanently. They contain no injurious ingredients. The use of them does not beget the "pill habit." Ask your druggist for them.

Send 21-cent stamps, the expense of mailing only, and receive Dr. Chamberlain's Common Sense Medical Advice on paper covers. This work contains 1000 pages and 700 illustrations. For 31 stamps it can be had in substantial cloth binding.

Where are the Graders?

Mr. Editor: Can anybody tell us what has become of the road graders? The two supervisors for the county came out in a card in the early spring ordering all road overseers not to use any plows or scrapers on the roads. They might, if they saw proper, order out the hands and work the roads with small tools, but from their card there was nothing obligatory on their part to do so. I gathered from their card that the road graders were going to do all the work and no one else need bother themselves about the matter. Now I have traveled over a good many of the public roads and I have not seen where the graders have worked in a single instance and have not heard of their working anywhere. I would like to know what they are doing. Can't you stir up our county court some and get them to see after the matter. This county is taxed pretty heavily for that purpose as well as some others, and I think the court ought to require a certified statement from the supervisors and have it published to let the tax payers know what becomes of their money along that line, and just a simple statement of what they had done from the supervisors should not be sufficient. The court ought to know whether this statement is correct or not. There seems to be a good deal of carelessness in this matter and it certainly should be looked into.

Cerulean Springs the Scene of the Gay Dance Friday Night.

The opening ball at Cerulean Springs Friday night was a decided success in point of attendance and in the pleasure of the occasion.

There were more than 100 guests from neighboring towns, as shown by the hotel register. Many young ladies were included in the arrival from Hopkinsville, Cadiz, Princeton, Henderson and other places. A party from this city numbered 35 persons. About 20 were present from Cadiz and 20 as many from Princeton.

The band engaged for the season has arrived and made excellent music. The dancing continued until a late hour and the season was most auspiciously opened.

The fair at Cerulean was never better and the rooms are all in prime condition, having been newly painted and furnished.
